

An oldie but a goodie

- Find someone in the class that can answer one of the questions.
- Jot down their answer and name in the square.
- Find someone else to answer another question and keep going until you have all 12 answers.
- Once finished, compare your answers in class or in a group.

(The same person can't answer any more than two of your questions.)

Find someone who can tell you...

The name of an old building in your district that's well worth looking after.	A place near you that shows the type of work that people once did.	A job that was done in New Zealand over 100 years ago but not now.
A building or structure in New Zealand that people will want to see standing for as long as possible.	A building or structure in the world that people will want to see standing for as long as possible.	Something that was built because of a war.
A building where people have gathered for more than 100 years.	A reason for demolishing something that tells us about our past.	The name of an old machine that was used in some work that is no longer done.
A resource that workers once gathered, that can't be gathered now.	A place in New Zealand where people gathered to find gold.	Something people can do to help others find out about the past.
