CHAIRMAN'S INTRODUCTION

TVNZ has achieved a satisfactory result for the first six months of the 2009 financial year, reporting earnings (before interest, tax and financial instruments) of $27.7 million compared to $32.3 million in the same period the previous year.

The after tax profit of $18.2 million for the period compares with $20.6 million for the prior period.

While this is a pleasing result in the circumstances the impact of the global economic downturn is already apparent and, like all other businesses in 2009, TVNZ will face significant constraints due to worsening conditions.

We expect the remainder of the fiscal year to be tough, and are prepared for this to continue into the 2010 year.

CHIEF EXECUTIVE'S OVERVIEW

Two years ago TVNZ began the hard work of turning the organisation into a contemporary, streamlined and efficient digital media company with a long term future – rather than a simple television broadcaster.

The result of this effort became visible at the end of the last financial year, when the company worked its way back into the black, with a return on shareholders equity that was better than most SOEs and Crown-owned Companies as well as many publicly listed companies. The current half-year result is a validation of that approach.

We began this financial year well placed to continue our three-year turnaround plan, and were optimistic that even better results were achievable.

Core television revenues for the first six months of the current year have remained at the same levels as the prior period, with some additional operating revenues coming from Emerging Business operations.

Total expenses for the period were $196.5 million and included the one-off costs associated with the broadcast and multi-feed service of the Beijing Olympics, and operational costs associated with expanding elements of our Emerging Business division.

It also records expenses (offset against revenue) for both of the two fully Government-funded digital channels, TVNZ 6 and 7. (TVNZ 6 was operational for only part of the comparative period, and TVNZ 7 was not launched until March 2008.)

During the course of this half year, however, the world's financial situation has changed, and along with other media companies in New Zealand and overseas we face difficult times ahead.

Despite the unavoidable impact of the recession, the work done by the company to produce a satisfactory half-year result must be acknowledged.

In particular, the coverage of both the Beijing Olympic Games and New Zealand's General Election were outstanding.

The Olympic Games coverage was TVNZ's most ambitious to date. It exceeded all expectations and was a success on every front.

It reached more than 90% of the available audience, with overseas research showing New Zealand's rate of viewership was more than double the international average.

The online performance of the Olympic Games website was spectacular, with unique browsers tripling, page impressions doubling, and 360,000 hours of video live-streamed in just two weeks.

TVNZ's satellite, production and technical teams produced outstanding coverage for delivery across all TVNZ platforms, with multi-feeds to 105 international territories in Asia, Africa, the Middle East and the Pacific.

TVNZ's election programming was highly successful, with more than 1.5 million individual New Zealanders tuning in.

The ONE News YouTube Leaders' Debate was the first time in the world where the two contestants for the Prime Ministership were asked questions live via the YouTube platform. The site, the ratings and the share performed beyond expectations, and the same format was then carried into the second Major Parties Debate through our own network's website tvnz.co.nz.

This was an excellent example of the television and online divisions working together to drive audience engagement across a number of TVNZ screens.

The 2008 calendar year closed with a particularly gratifying performance at this year's Qantas Film and Television Awards.

TVNZ won eight of the 11 News and Current Affairs awards including the coveted Best News, Best Presenter, Best Current Affairs Series and Investigation of the Year.

While there has been significant and sustained effort put in across the company to achieve the highly creditable progress to date, more will be needed.

Like other companies we must be prudent, we must prioritise our activities, and we must operate within budgetary constraints to get through the upcoming period.

For the remainder of the fiscal year we must focus intently on those of our initiatives that best support our financial and strategic priorities.

It will not be easy, but we intend to face the challenges with focus, energy and determination.

CHARTER PERFORMANCE MEASUREMENT

A new framework for the measurement of TVNZ's Charter performance was implemented for the first time in FY2008.

It is a two-stage process, reporting in an abridged form at half year, and in full in the Annual Report.

The approach taken, in consultation with the Ministry for Culture and Heritage and the Crown Company Monitoring Advisory Unit, was to summarise the provisions of the Charter into seven broad themes –

- An informed society
- National identity/citizenship
- Maori
- Diversity
- New Zealand talent
- Innovation
- High Standards

In the Interim Report these themes are measured against reach and output.

Reach is a measure of usage. For the framework, cumulative audience (5+) of both TVNZ analogue channels (TV ONE and TV2) across a specified timeframe will be used. The digital channels (TVNZ 6 and TVNZ 7) are not measured in this way.

Output is defined in the framework as the number of hours of content delivered across both analogue and digital services.

The Output Assessment Process

The assessment of which Charter themes were reflected in each programme broadcast in the last six months was carried out using three guiding principles:

- preference would be given to selection of New Zealand programming, on the assumption that it would have an impact intrinsically greater than that of overseas programming
- international programmes where the emphasis was judged to be as much on entertainment as information would not be included
- the total hours for each programme would be counted each time it appeared in any category, irrespective of which category was the primary focus of the programme

As a result of this approach, the combined total of hours in all categories is much greater than the actual hours broadcast, because many programmes feature in more than one category.

Definitions

An Informed Society	Providing impartial and comprehensive information and national and international programming that is essential to having an informed and educated society
National Identity/ Citizenship	Providing entertaining and informative programming that reflects the diverse range of cultures and interests that contributes to an overall sense of who we are as New Zealanders
Maori	Providing entertaining and informative programming that reflects Maori interests, culture, and language and conveying these interests to a wider NZ audience
Diversity	Providing entertaining national and international programmes that service the interests and needs of different audiences, including cultures, lifestyles, age and regions, and particularly those that may not be provided for in a purely commercial broadcasting environment
Innovation	Promoting innovation, risk taking and creativity
New Zealand Talent	Supporting and promoting the talents and the creative resources of New Zealanders
High Standards *	Promoting high programming standards and editorial integrity

* This category is measured by hours of local shows/films that TVNZ has funded, co-funded or commissioned. Because this includes titles that are yet to be screened and therefore are still commercially sensitive, only the total for the period is given. In July to December 2008 the total was 932.5 hours.
